Captive comparisons

How MOCaptive differs

Fees for licensing and renewal are fully deductible from future premium taxes.

Consultant review fees cannot exceed the stated maximum, no matter how complex.

Letters of credit, by statute, are admissible assets.

Most captive applications are approved in 30 days or less.

Offices in St. Louis, Kansas City and Jefferson City for your convenience.

Full-time captive staff – reinsurance expert, P&C actuary and L&H actuary – ensure responsive regulation.

Law provides a simplified process to re-domesticate existing captives from U.S. or offshore domiciles.

Law allows flexibility in determining the level of regulation needed.

Use the same audit and legal teams as your corporate business.

Get personal attention and direct access to the decision makers at the department.

Take advantage of our Midwestern work ethic.

How it's similar

Formation types and structures that suit most business needs, including pure, association, branch, cell and SPLRC captives.

Welcome to Missouri.

Central to the heartland of America, Missouri offers real opportunities for business success:

- Missouri has remained in the Pollina Corporate Real Estate's top 10 pro-business states for four years.
- Missouri has the third most diversified economy in the U.S. with a GDP exceeding $258 billion. (BEA, 2012)
- Missouri ranks in the top 10 states for regulatory environment. (Forbes, 2013)

Get the peace of mind that comes from locating your captive in a stable, business-friendly Midwestern domicile.

Missouri is within a time zone of most of the country

- Missouri is bordered by eight states, with 20 states close enough to be called neighbors.
- Located within 600 miles of Missouri are nearly half the manufacturing plants in our country and more than 50 percent of the U.S. population. It's a great place to live or do business with plenty of opportunity. Ask the 10 Fortune 500 companies headquartered here or the dozens of other large companies that have strategic production, service or distribution locations here.

Don't waste time. We work on your time. Experience real people, real opportunity in Missouri.

Missouri is within minutes of major U.S. cities

Rapid growth: Missouri began licensing captives in 2007. By 2013, annual premium volume of Missouri captives surpassed $6.5 billion.

Write the business you need: Missouri captives include Fortune 500 companies as well as small-business owners writing compensation deductibles, property and casualty lines, professional and general liability, life reinsurance and much more.

Experience the difference: Missouri is a leader in the alternative risk transfer market, dedicated to a regulatory environment where businesses can grow and prosper.

So when you're ready to get down to business, we're here to listen to your plan.

The captive domicile in your backyard

There are lots of captive domiciles to choose from, but none this close to home.

Missouri is located in the heartland of America with two major metropolitan areas offering easy access to companies interested in maximizing efficiency and controlling expenses.

Our laws are similar to most active domiciles and were enacted to benefit the state of Missouri and those companies that would prefer to keep their captive closer to their base of operations.

The Department of Insurance, Financial Institutions and Professional Registration has a full-time team dedicated solely to the captive industry. Missouri appreciates the opportunities for economic development within the captive industry and has dedicated the resources necessary to support its success.

Missouri offers an abundance of insurance expertise: The NAIC is based in Kansas City, all major actuarial and accounting firms have offices here, and most of the world's largest captive management firms are approved to do business here.
